KAREN'S STORY

"One thing I knew was that if I could survive, I wasn't going to be silent. I was going to fight, speak up, and share the knowledge I gained from my personal battle."

On Valentine's Day of 2008, I began the battle of my life. Pathology reports confirmed Stage III Ovarian Cancer. Armed with my faith, my supportive, loving family, the most amazing friends, and the best medical staff, I went through 18 months of chemotherapy, where I encountered the most courageous and determined women I had ever met. We laughed and cried as we shared our stories, prayed, and talked about our hopes and dreams for the future. Sadly, I lost many friends along the way. Through my experience I learned it is SO important to know the signs and symptoms of gynecologic cancers. We also must find an early detection test for ovarian cancer so that more women can survive. I'm sharing my story to support the Laura Crandall Brown Foundation's mission of research, awareness, and patient support. What a wonderful cause!

~ Karen, 9-year ovarian cancer survivor
